

Girls take on the world

University of California

STUDENT REPORTER
NATALIE STILES

Year 11, Saint Stephen's College

THIS month, Michelle Curtis and I are travelling to San Francisco to participate in the National Student Leadership Conference at the University of California.

This incredible opportunity will allow us to experience aspects of leadership in a global setting where students from all around the world will meet to share different perspectives and broaden a global vision of leadership.

While Michelle and I will be a part of the same conference, we will be participating in completely different courses.

Michelle will undertake the Medicine and Healthcare course for 10 days and will experience the ins and outs of the healthcare profession and deal with many of the circumstances one would experience in that line of work.

I will be participating in the Mastering Leadership course for six days and I hope to learn to become a better version of myself in order to be a better leader for others.

Michelle and I received the honour of representing our school thanks to the Goda Foundation and the incredible generosity of Humphrey Firkins, long-time philanthropist and benefactor of Saint Stephen's College.

On behalf of Michelle and all of the other Saint Stephen's students who have been sponsored over the years, we would like to thank Mr Firkins for his amazing generosity.

We are eternally grateful for everything he has done for us.

Tuesday 13-7-10

Gold Coast Bulletin